E. W. M. MACKEY'S LETTER.

FRAUDS IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

Villainous Transactions in Charleston by which a bigger Majority was given against Mackey than there are Democrats in the City.

[By Telegraph to the Tribune.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Every mail brings additional reports of open and systematic frauds and acts of violence committed by the democrats of South Carolina at the election of Tuesday last.

The following letter from ex-Congressman Mackey, the republican candidate for election in the Charleston district, will be found interesting:

"CHARLESTON, S. C., Nov. 7, 78.

"MY DEAR SIR: Yours of the 5th inst. received. As you anticipated, the democrats have counted me out.—

That I received a majority of at least 5,000 there is no doubt; yet O'Connor is given by the election officers a majority of 7,000, and perhaps it may be more. How it has been done I shall tell you, and I hope you will publish the facts in every paper you can.

"In the first place, in the appointment of managers of elections, the democratic commissioners of elections in the several counties in this district absolutely refused to appoint a single republican manager throughout the district, so that we were compelled to vote without a single election officer to represent us in the entire district.

"It is true we had a United States Supervisor appointed at each poll; and the democratic managers at most of the polls admitted them into the polling places, yet they threw every obstacle they could in their way, and in no instance would they allow them to exercise any authority save to stand by and witness the voting. In some instances the authority of the supervisors was entirely ignored. In one case the manager ordered the supervisor out of the polling place, and upon his refusing to do so they ordered the state constables to eject him, which they did.—

This was at the Mt. Pleasant poll in this county. At the Palmetto engine house in ward three of this city, the supervisor was severely beaten by the democratic voters and driven away from the polls. The authority of the United States Marshals was treated with utter contempt, and to save themselves from arrest by the city and state authorities they were compelled to refrain from exercising any authority.

"In this city the democratic managers of elections arbitrarily refused to allow 2,000 colored voters the right to vote. Unless a colored man was refused the right to vote unless he could bring witnesses to prove he resided. Many were turned off under the pretext that they were not twenty-one years of age, or rather that the managers were doubtful of it.

"At the last session of the Legislature the two voting precincts in St. Andrews Parish were abolished, and the 500 colored voters of that section of the county left without a polling place.—

The parish is only separated from the city by Ashley river, and used to be connected with Charleston by a bridge, which you will probably recollect was burned at the evacuation of the city by the rebels. The people crossed over to the city of Charleston for the purpose of voting, but the democratic managers would not receive their votes, though the city of Charleston was the only place where they could vote. The Legislature also abolished all the voting places on the state road between Charleston and Summerville, and yet when the people came to Charleston to vote the democratic managers denied them the privilege, telling them to go and vote where they lived, although they knew full well that there was no polling place where they resided.

"Notwithstanding all these outrages, the republicans carried this county by at least a 4,000 majority, but to their utter surprise, when the ballot boxes were opened at the various polls, the votes were found to contain in most cases several hundred more ballots than there were names on the poll list. Of the 52 polls in this county, at 30 of them the ballots were largely in excess of the names on the poll list. Every ballot box was stuffed with tickets of the kind I inclose. (The ticket is of some paper with the same printed upon it.) For Governor, Wade Hampton,

THE WILMINGTON POST.

WILMINGTON, N. C.
SUNDAY MORNING, NOV. 17, 1878.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

There is still a singular sweetness and mildness, and loftiness going on among the red-shirted patriots of South Carolina. The facts in regard to the atrocities of the late election are accumulating and being spread before the public. Gov. Hampton telegraphed on the night of election that all had been "quiet and orderly," and it has been announced that the democrats had carried every county in the state but one, and that their majority was 63,000. And this in a state which would have had in a fair election 30,000 republican majority. A colored man, who is vouched for as being "both honest and intelligent" by persons in Washington who know him, writes from Bronson, which is in the Beaufort district, giving some facts showing how delightfully things went on there. He says:

"The election at this place to-day was the most riotous I ever saw. As I wrote you last night, this place was thronged with men wearing red shirts, and they rode over and over the town, and to a few plantations in the vicinity. They fired on my house several times, some of the balls piercing through the walls and entering the house. They also shot at some houses of colored people in the country. When the poll was opened this morning it was opened amid round after round of yells of the crowd of white men. There was no one at the poll to represent the republican party. I heard to-day that Mr. John Roberts was appointed Supervisor for the Republican party, but he did not come."

It is strange that "Mr. John Roberts," who is, we suppose, a Republican, was not there to see the fun. The thing seems to have gone on "quiet and orderly" thus:

"While pressing through this crowd at least a dozen colored men were struck by white men, but most of the blows were struck with the open hand, now and then with a stick and a kick. * * Before we had deposited a half dozen votes a crowd of white men ran into the house and commenced striking the colored men with sticks, and they all ran out, but some of the white men living in and around Bronson very promptly quieted what it seemed was going to be a row, and told the colored men to come back and vote."

He says that some decent white men in the crowd undertook to stop these proceedings, and urged the colored men to come back and vote. They tried it with not much success, and then had more fun, as follows:

But the worst was not come yet. A small crowd of colored men was coming from the neighborhood of Broxton's Bridge, and on entering the town was met by a crowd of white men on horses, who with sticks in hand, ran into the crowd, dailing right and left and a few of them jumped down and fired a few pistol shots and made me think again that the time for peace was up. This was also stopped by those few energetic peace-makers above referred to. A review of the battle-field showed January Robinson to be badly gashed in the head with a stick, and a few others had received slighter bruises on their heads and arms. This was the first time the colored men showed any disposition to help their brethren, but they were held under complete control by Doctor Folk and others.

Then he says the "peace" reigned for two or three hours. Then another pleasant, funny time arrived. Somebody challenged "Cato and James Rivers." Thomas, their brother, "grumbled at the managers," and some said "had his knife out and wouldn't put it up." Then as follows:

They jumped on Thomas with sticks. James and Cato ran to him and caught him out. They turned on them, and nearly every other colored man they could find, with sticks and pistols. Several shots were fired, one ball striking James Rivers in the back, and passed through his body, and inflicting it is thought, a fatal wound. Several colored men got painfully wounded in the row. Dawson Muldrow got his ear cut nearly off, and a painful gash on the other side of his head. This was not done by the strangers referred to, but by men, who are well known here. James Rivers got away and ran some distance from the crowd before he was hit.

This colored man quietly says that "most of the shooting was done, it seemed, for intimidation and amusement," and adds concerning the white men who tried to stop it, that they "deserve the gratitude of the colored men." But he further says:

From all appearances a good deal of repeating was done by the red-shirts. To vote the Republican ticket here to-day seemed almost sure death, so much so that a great many did not vote at all, and after the last row I left the poll and advised all the colored men I saw coming in not to go near the poll, and what for got to the polls unadvised were under the pressure of being compelled to vote the Democratic ticket or not vote at all.

Of course these sort of entertainments went on in this "quiet and orderly" manner all over that charming and highly civilized state, which is ruled over by "that great and good man" Wade Hampton. If Wade was not at present laid up from a compound fracture of his tibia bone, brought on by falling from his mule while fox-hunting, we should think that he ought at once to be invited to Boston for an ovation. It would be fitting for this "great and good man" to sit down and reflect at the base of Bunker Hill Monument, or to orate for the instruction of that backward population in Faneuil Hall. It might add to the interest of the occasion if a fair showing of these red-shirts, rifle-shin gentlemen were taken on with him, so as to exhibit to the degenerating race who are managing to survive there, the ethnological superiority of the average citizen of the free and civilized state of South Carolina. At any rate, in consideration of his services to liberty [of voting] and free suffrage, he ought to be elected Vice-President, so that, having become President as "His Accident," as others have done, we could have these entertainments all over the United States.

Gov. Chamberlain really the law-fut Governor of South Carolina until the late election, has recently been indicated in the courts of that state for something connected with the Land Commission of 1876, of which he was a member. The fact was telegraphed from Columbia in the newspapers, while Governor Chamberlain had no official notice of it. Whereupon he telegraphed to the Attorney General of South Carolina as follows:

New York, Nov. 8, 1878.
The Hon. A. F. Youmans, Attorney-General, Columbia, S. C.
If it be true, as represented here that an indictment has been found against me, I shall voluntarily appear to meet it. I respectfully ask to be informed when the state will be ready for trial, and whether any bond for my appearance is desired.

D. H. CHAMBERLAIN,
No. 346 Broadway.

When asked if he could rely on a fair trial there, he replied: "I don't know. Those who seem to be best informed about it say I cannot. However that may be, it will make no difference with my action or my duty. I do not have a fair trial, my friends and the country will see and know it. I have tried to do my duty without flinching, and while my enemies now have it in their power to cause me and my family and friends temporary wrong and suffering, they cannot disgrace me or cause me to regret the part I have borne in public affairs in South Carolina."

He says further: "There are no facts—there can be no facts—which support any charge of fraud against me, either in the Land Commission or any other matter in South Carolina. What some degraded villain, willing to commit perjury to save himself from punishment, may have sworn to before the Grand Jury, I do not know. If a small fraction of the information which has reached me since I left South Carolina is true, their so-called investigations there have been principally from the start a hunt for some ground for an indictment against me. They have had full knowledge of all matters connected with the Land Commission since 1872. Why have they waited until now to proceed against me? It will be found that this indictment rests solely on the word of men whom everybody knows to be to be common perjurers, ready to swear to anything to save themselves."

Gov. Chamberlain is a man every inch, and has more ability and honor than the whole herd of villains who are pursuing him.

FLORIDA AFFAIRS.

The Democrats are trying to throw out enough of the votes cast for Bisbee, Republican to prevent him from getting his seat. Maybe they will succeed and make their want. A gentleman named Cowgill who was one of the returning board in Florida, relates that:

Before the canvass had commenced, and during the time when the Democrats were making their absurdly zealous attempt to force the Board by mandamus to commence the count before the time fixed by law, Mr. Manton Marble, in a conversation held at my house, after attempting to impress me with the great danger that would arise to the country if Mr. Tilden were deprived of the election, said: "I am a gentleman, and I see that you are one, and therefore you will not misunderstand me. I am Mr. Tilden's near friend, knowing as much, if not more than any one else, of his views and opinions; and I now inform you that he is a man of immense wealth and great gratitude, and if by your vote he becomes President, you will have not only the gratitude of the great Democratic party, but also the gratitude of Mr. Tilden, and all that that implies." In answer I ignored all that had been said concerning Mr. Tilden, and only replied: As a Republican, do you not suppose that I had rather have the gratitude of the great Republican party to that of the great Democratic party? This, I presume, was one of the visits "wasted upon the Controller." Afterward Mr. Marble visited at my house several times, but nothing more passed between us concerning Mr. Tilden's gratitude.

He says also that one "Mr. Andrew Banks, of Baltimore," actually offered to pay him either in office or money if he would cast his vote for Tilden, while Manton Marble only promised the gratitude of Mr. Tilden, all that that implies.

Those who think the Republican party dead will do well to examine the election returns of Tuesday the 5th of November, 1878. Every northern state has gone Republican except two—Indiana and Oregon. It makes a mighty omelet for a dead party. So think Butler & Co.

The people of the south might well ask themselves the question, Will ever the time come when the negro will shoot back? It may be, and bullets don't know whether a white man or a negro is behind them.—John Orem.

STEALING NORTH CAROLINA LAND.

A Philadelphia telegram gives a little information in regard to 100,000 acres of land in Brunswick county, and the alleged operations of one J. B. Reed, which may interest some of our readers. The following is the telegram: "A warrant was issued this morning for the arrest of J. B. Reed, one of the alleged conspirators in the Whitaker will case. The affidavit states that some time ago Reed borrowed from a gentleman in this city the original letters patent and deeds to nearly 100,000 acres in Brunswick and Craven counties, N. C., upon the representation that he had a purchaser for the lands. Reed destroyed the deeds, which had never been recorded, and substituted false ones, in which the names of a former mayor of Philadelphia, John Burns, once a well-known local alderman, and others were named as principals and witnesses. These deeds, carrying with them the land, were first recorded in North Carolina, and then sold to a person in Camden. The charge is also made, that Reed, in conjunction with Geo. N. Townsend, who is now awaiting trial on a similar charge, have put upon the market forged deeds for nearly 400,000 acres of land in West Virginia, and that these deeds have been recorded in that state."

Southern Republicans, the time is coming when you can make yourselves felt by the northern republicans. They have given us the cold shoulder for the past ten years, and self respect will compel us to demand a change. The National Convention will convene in 1880, and every southern delegate should meet and unite on a line of policy before going into that convention. If they will be united and go for the candidate who will pledge himself to respect them; treat them as republicans, not as aliens. Go for the man who will pledge himself to defend southern union republicans when their lives and their property are at stake; support the man who is pledged that southern republicans shall have their proportion of the offices; that the colored people shall also be recognized as citizens, and given a share of the public patronage. Vote in the National Convention for a man who will pledge to some southern republican in his Cabinet a man who will represent in the presidential caucus the down-trodden, long abused southern union white and colored people. If the southern delegates will act as men and require the above pledges from the candidate they support, the southern union men, white and colored, will be treated as American citizens and equals by the northern republicans, from 1881 until 1885.

North Carolina has honestly elected three anti-democrats of the 46th Congress. This was done without outside aid. Had the Republican Congressional Committee, at Washington, done their duty by this state we should have elected five, and possibly six; but for many years the northern republicans have not given the southern republicans the assistance that they should have given, if they really desired the south to be represented by republicans. Hereafter southern union republicans should look out for themselves, pay no attention to, nor expect any assistance from the Republican National or Congressional Committees. They must go to work, effect their party organization and in 1880 make a bold stride for their rights. Nominate good, honest, bold, energetic republicans for office, those who are not afraid to make a canvass, and success will be ours. But if they continue to depend on the republican committees (national and congressional) their flag will certainly trail in the dust.

The Wilmington Star is constantly charging that the Republican party is responsible for the heavy debt that North Carolina owes. The writer for the Star must be a fool or a knave. If he knows the fact, that nine-tenths of the bonds were issued at the earnest solicitation of Democrats, and went into Democratic hands, and in many cases were stolen by them, and then wilfully, maliciously, and for party purposes, mistakes it, he is a knave. A public journal should at all times, like an individual, state the truth or say nothing. Some of our Democratic journals in the state have been so constantly lying for the last ten years, to the Republican party, that it has become very hard for them to tell the truth on any subject.

Truth, crushed to earth, shall rise again. The eternal years of Heaven are to their battles won. And die among his worshippers.

Mr. Joseph J. Martin, the gentleman who has just been elected in the First Congressional district of North Carolina, is a lawyer of considerable ability. He is a gentleman of unblemished character, and has been for many years the solicitor for the second judicial district. He was a delegate to the Cincinnati convention in 1876. There is no man who stands higher in his party, or with the whole people than Mr. Martin. We congratulate the citizens of the first district on their exceeding good fortune in obtaining so valuable a public servant.

Both Jefferson Davis and his wife have been exceeding ill at New Orleans. They endeavored to go to the bedside of their dying son at Memphis, but were restrained by the entreaties of their friends from a journey which would have been fatal. A near friend carried to the young man the last affectionate messages from his parents.

The National Republican pays Judge Thomas Settle a compliment in the editorial article we publish below from his columns. If any southern man is nominated for the Vice Presidency, Judge Settle would unquestionably be the man. But the northern Republicans have not yet come to the conclusion to do justice by their southern brethren. Therefore we are of the opinion that Judge Settle's chances will be very slim. We heartily approve of all the National Republican says about the organization &c. of our party in the state; and we hope to see the day when Colonel Keogh will get his war paint on, and call the clan together to prepare for the action. We are willing to forgive the "Bip Van Winkle" style of the state committee in the past, if they will do better in the future. Read this article from the National Republican.

Next morning in North Carolina plainly demonstrates the truth of our repeated assertion that the Old North State rightfully belongs to the Republican party. There are within her intelligent and naturally conservative citizenship at least 40,000 white Republicans, who, added to the 50,000 black votes make a legitimate majority of the entire voting population of the state. Of this combined white and black Republican vote only about 114,000 were counted for Judge Settle when he ran for Governor in 1876, and he was cheated out of the remaining 6,000. Governor Vance, the Democratic candidate, received the full strength of the Democratic vote, which did not exceed, legally, 110,000, and to which 13,000 were fraudulently added, giving him a majority over Settle of 7,000. Very naturally, after this defeat, through the instrumentality of Democratic fraud, followed as it was by an apparent abandonment of this administration of the Republicans of the south, the party in North Carolina became greatly discouraged, lost much of its discipline, and finally reached the very verge of complete disorganization. This was the situation last summer when the judicial, legislative, county and municipal or local elections were held. The Republicans accordingly put no judicial ticket in the field, and in many of the counties in the more pronounced Democratic sections of the state made no attempt to put in a ticket for the local Democratic nominees. In fact, they may be said to have gone to bush-whacking in that campaign; but the old spirit of antagonism to the Bourgeois asserted itself. Independentism, as it was called, became contagious, and the most astonishing inroads were made upon the Democratic strength. A fight between Messrs. Merrimon and Vance for the control of the legislature in the election of United States senator added to the general confusion in the Democratic ranks, and the Republicans rejected in many unexpected gains in the legislature. This should have encouraged them to reorganization before the fall campaign for Congress began, and it will now be admitted that the managers of the party made a great mistake in not adopting that policy. If they had, as the Wilmington Post suggests, the probabilities are they would have carried more than three Congressional districts, which they have done, thereby making a gain of over half their representation in the present House. But these are hindsight suggestions—always better than foresight certainties—and are only useful now in considering the policy of the future. They most assuredly point to the necessity of complete and thorough organization now in preparation for the grand national contest of 1880, when the redemption of the state to the cause of good government will be fully accomplished. And there is an especial reason, based upon a natural state pride, why this should be done. That reason is the probability that a native North Carolinian, Judge Thomas Settle, will be placed in nomination on the Republican ticket for President. We say the probability, because he is apparently the most available man of prominence upon whom the southern Republicans will concentrate for that nomination, and the nomination for President will be conceded to the North, thereby giving the southern right of privilege of filling the second place on the ticket. Now, let us hear the word of command from Greensboro. The rank and file of the party all over the state are eagerly listening for it. Location at the South

Twelve members will sit in the next Congress by virtue of an amendment of the Constitution which they have declared infamous, unconstitutional and void. True, they were elected by land or violence. The startling letter of Mr. Mackey of South Carolina, which was printed by the Tribune yesterday, and ought to be reprinted in every journal in the land which seeks to publish the truth, gives a picture of the real condition of many southern districts. First, proscription of the worst sort is employed to break down the Republican party; then assassinations are devised by secret legions, and terrible massacres strike terror to the hearts of timid or peace-loving voters; and finally, if all these methods fail, the ballot-boxes are stuffed with Democratic ballots on little slips of tissue paper, with such reckless impudence that the number of ballots counted exceeds the entire number of names on the poll list in at least twenty precinct out of thirty-two in a county. Every day it is becoming more plain that the "solid South" is a product, not of the free-will of voters, but of systematic violence and boundless fraud. The man who could not buy the Presidency in 1876, mean to start it in 1880, and if a solid South does not prevent, they surely will. But they would have power to steal only 125 electoral votes at the worst, and could not have gained, even by force and fraud, as many members by at least 12 as they have gained, if the recent amendments of the Constitution were not in full force against the Union, though void against its foes. The southern democrats deny the validity of the Fifteenth Amendment, and trample it under foot, and deprive the colored Republicans of all chance to choose representatives of their own race in localities where they outnumber the whites ten to one; and yet these same southern Democrats elect 12 more members of Congress than they could elect if the negroes had remained slaves.

Emancipation, we all remember, was the crowning act in the suppression of the rebellion. But it was said with truth, by all intelligent citizens, that emancipation would prove a farce without enfranchisement. In states governed by former masters, the negroes would have been in a condition worse than slavery. The breaking of fetters would have been an act of cruelty, had the negro been left without a ballot for the defence of his personal rights. There were sagacious men who then maintained that no change of the Constitution would suffice; that communities which were hostile to the Union could not be safely trusted, until a whole generation had passed either with the administration of local governments upon which the relations between the late masters and their late slaves would depend, or with a share in the government of the United States. It was their most urgent plea that the United States should hold in its own hand for years the protection of the colored people in their rights, and that the communities lately in rebellion should be retained as territories under military supervision until local governments could be firmly established. But the more generous view prevailed. The country decided to trust those who had rebelled, and to restore them to a share in the government of the Union which they had forfeited, providing that the increased representation resulting from emancipation of the negroes should go to their benefit, and not to the benefit of their late masters. The former slaves, it was declared, should elect their own representatives. On those terms states were readmitted. The faithful observance of these terms was a condition in fact, and is to this day a condition in reason and equity, of the restoration of the defeated rebels to political rights.

Yet the colored citizens are no longer permitted to vote as they will, or if they vote at all their ballots are lost in the stuffed ballot-boxes at which democratic judges of election preside. By force and fraud it has come to pass that the emancipated and enfranchised colored millions cannot elect for themselves as many members as their enfranchisement has added to the representation of the South. Under the old rule the southern democrat would have elected 76 members for himself, and 18 for his slaves. Having rebelled, he was restored to the union on the condition that his former slaves should have the ballot and elect their own members. But now, white leagues and Ku-Klux, by assassinations and massacres, by "bulldozing" and ballot-box stuffing, it has come to pass that the southern democrat elects 76 members for himself and 30 for his former slaves. If a few of the 76 members to which white citizens of the South are entitled are still chosen by republican votes, it is an error in the working of the machinery employed to produce a solid South—an error which democratic assure us, will be corrected hereafter.

We offer no suggestion now as to the remedy to be adopted. The question at present is whether the loyal and liberty-loving north is willing to be ruled by this same system of violence and fraud. It is whether the condition upon which certain states were restored to the union have not been infamously disregarded. The question is, in a word, whether 5,000,000 southern democrats shall have as much power in this union as 12,000,000 colored men and 4,000,000 southern republicans, by means of systematic defiance of the constitution and the guarantee of freedom. It is high time that this question should be seriously considered, and unless we very soon make a change of policy, we will have a solid South as solid as the time when the South has been fully placed before them.

The reputation it has attained, in consequence of the marvelous cures it has produced during the last half century, is a sufficient assurance to the public that it will continue to realize the happiest results that can be desired.

In almost every section of country there are persons, publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs, by its use. All who have tried it acknowledge its superiority; and where its virtues are known, no one hesitates as to what medicine to employ to relieve the distress and suffering peculiar to pulmonary affections. Cherry Pectoral always affords instant relief, and performs rapid cures of the milder varieties of bronchial disorder, as well as the more formidable diseases of the lungs.

As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of Childhood, it is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued and restored to health.

This medicine gains friends at every trial, as the cures it is constantly producing are too remarkable to be forgotten. No family should be without it, and those who have once used it never will.

Eminent Physicians throughout the country prescribe it, and Clergymen often recommend it from their knowledge of its effects.

OLD, TRIED, AND TRUE.

People are getting acquainted—and those who are not ought to be—with the wonderful merits of this great American Remedy, the

MEXICAN

Mustang Liniment,

FOR MAN AND BEAST.

This liniment very naturally originated in America, where Nature provides in her laboratory such surprising medicines for the maladies of her children. Its fame has been spreading for 35 years, until now it occupies the habitable globe.

The Mexican Mustang Liniment is a medicine recently formulated from the most valuable and purest ingredients of an excellent horse, cow, or sheep.

It cures footlock, sorefoot, hollow horn, galls, sore-corns, shoe-burns, mange, the bites and stings of poisonous reptiles and insects, and every such disease to which horses and man are liable. It cures every violent trouble of horses, such as colic, spasms, swellings, stiffness, lameness, wind-galls, ring-bones, &c., &c.

It is the most powerful remedy in the world for the cure of the venereal disease, and a single application is generally sufficient to cure it.
